With You Own Equipment it Just Plain Feels Better

When it comes to dive gear, one size does not fit all. That's why rental equipment will never feel as good as equipment that has been custom tailored to fit your individual needs. It's never too early to invest in the equipment you need to make diving as enjoyable as possible. And, by buying now, you can learn using the equipment that will be with you for years to come.

Made Plans Yet for Your Open Water Training Dives?

- In addition to going to Millbrook, you can complete your training requirements on almost all of our instructor-led group trips.
 - If you've already made travel plans, we can help you set up your open-water training dives at your intended destination.
